Better Babies, Maybe
Homemade Lightning
Why Import Beer or Wine?
More Gold Worries
—By Arthur Brisbane—

IN GERMANY the new broom is sweeping clean, with much new law making, and sweeping away some things that will be missed later.

The most recent announcement is that of a "Spartan genetics code," which is to produce better German babies. Mothers are told to cease filling their brains with useless education, and concentrate on producing fine German children. Modern Germany is to be inspired by the example of ancient Sparta.

When a cowboy was offered oxtail soup, he said: "That's going a long way back for soup."

Going back to Sparta and Draco is going a long way back for inspiration.

Delicate children, according to the Nazi idea, are "not worth bothering with." To produce husky young Germans is the great thing. That's going back to the Red Indians, who had a habit of killing any baby that was imperfect. Neither Red Indians nor Spartans ever amounted to much in the world's history, however.

A new electrical machine, called "Van Der Graaf 10,000-electric volt generator," is a very good imitation of lightning.

From the day when men shivered and prayed to some renowned idol, when thunder crashed and lightning flashed, to this day, when men make lightning for their own purpose, is quite a change.

This new electrical generator will make possible the sending of power over thousands of miles of wire, especially insulated.

Dr. Compton, describing the great generator, says in future engineers will rule society, deciding what it shall and shall not do.

In that the learned gentleman is mistaken. Engineers will rule ENGINEERS. Human desires and inborn instincts will rule society now as they did 1,000,000 years ago. Neither science nor Hitler can change that.

The Grand Duchy of Luxembourg has sent the first so-called "legal 3.2 wine," 50,000 cases.

There is a 3.2 natural wine of such an alcoholic content, it does not exist, cannot be produced naturally.

Regardless of that fact, why does it go to the United States, foreign countries to send wine or beer to the United States?

American beer is as good as any, and the beer brewed here is made of grain grown by AMERICAN farmers.

California and other states produce excellent wine, and as anybody needs, and they can dilute it, since it must be so, down to 3.2.

"Absolute protection" should begin by forbidding importation of any beer or wine to protect American farmers and grape growers. Could it be done, and wine business be exclusive here?

The European "gold bloc" of France, Switzerland, Holland and Belgium, all still on the gold basis, beg England to help them to "stay on." That is an easy in a world that some suddenly have lost its interest in the precious yellow.

England, first of the big nations to abandon gold after forcing it on India, tells France, "Sorry, but we are busy looking after our pound sterling. You look after the franc."

The American dollar can stand a drop, for it was actually worth 160 cents, and has still a long way to go before becoming worth as little as 100 cents.

The franc, on the other hand, has already been officially cut down by 80 per cent of its value. The Frenchman who has five francs in the old money, about equivalent to one of our nickels, now has only one sou.

The French say they do not know what will happen if anything more is cut from the value of the French peasant's franc.

The rest of the world is the most worrying much about the franc, and not at all. France isn't cut most indignantly, 80 per cent from the value of "franc bonds" that Englishmen bought to help France in the war.

The rest of the world is very much interested in the important question: "What will happen if all the nations abandon gold and the dollar suddenly finds itself without the old standard, within 'yard stick of value'?"

The thing in central, this country will suffer, if at all, less than any other country.

Money is "worth" what it will buy, and the American dollar will be anything in the United States, which has more things worth buying than any other country.

Also "more plentiful" dollars will continue to promote business and raise prices, which this country needs.

New York, June 30 (INS)—One moment, he stood there for all the world to see, simulating a disdain he could not hope to feel, a smirk he could not mean. The next, he was gone, snuffed out as though a strangely sinister draft of wind had touched the flame and swiftly passed on by.

Jack Sharkey, the big blaster man, the heavyweight champion, many had hated and few had loved, simply was no more. Like something broken and utterly spent he lay face down last night by the ropes that helped betray him, while destiny sat in judgment and out there in the blackness of the night a crowd of 48,000 gibbered and aped and howled.

Sharkey Fails to Hear Fatal Count of Ten

Over him stood the referee, telling unceremoniously on toward ten. It had not been heard. Around many reigned but he could not hear. Over in one corner, consternation.

Mad Dog in Attacks at Salem Fire

A mad dog racing through the crowd gathered at a Salem fire added terror to the excitement to day.

The dog bit William Riley, who was rushed to a hospital. Three women fainted.

Nine firemen were overcome by fumes, one requiring respiratory treatment in Salem hospital, at the general alarm blast that swept a two-story business block at Washington and New Derby streets.

The origin of the fire was unknown.

It broke out in the building known as the Hawthorne building, shortly before midnight and raged uncontrolled until 3 a. m. At this hour the flames checked the spread of the blaze and two hours later was extinguished. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

Clifford Cooler, a Salem fireman, was overcome by the fumes and was taken to Salem Hospital where he was placed in a respirator. It is believed a blood transfusion, which he donated a few days ago, left him in a weakened condition.

Others overcome included Chief James S. Koen, Deputy Chief Joseph Flynn, James O'Brien and Capt. Patrick Harney, all of the Salem department, and Chief William C. Mahoney, Capt. Charles Lawlor, Joseph Mulcahy and George Jacques of the Peabody department.

Humidity Rises as Heat Lessens

Yesterday it was heat. Today it's humidity.

Actually, today started out and continued about ten degrees cooler than at the same time yesterday up until noon, but the moisture in the air was 83 per cent. At noon the temperature rose 35.

The weatherman hasn't much to offer in the way of relief, except the probability of showers tonight.

Sharkey at Home, Still Real Champ to His Children

He may have been knocked out and toppled from his heavyweight throne in New York, but Jack Sharkey is still the champion at his home in Newton.

Sliding to a stop in the big 12-cylinder car that he drove himself all the way back from the city of last night's defeat, Sharkey arrived home at 8:50 a. m. today, just after his three youngsters had learned the outcome of the fight.

Their grandfather had learned that the children only a few minutes before that Primo Carnera was the new heavyweight champion of the world and that now Daddy could have a rest.

SEEK EXTENSION OF GUSTIN Gang Chief Will Fight Return for Grill in Two Killings

(Sergeant Tierman's own story of Gustin's capture on Page 8.)

His wanted connections of no avail, Stephen G. Wallace, better known as Steve Gustin, leader of the notorious Gustin gang, imprisoned in the New York Tombs today, held without bail for hearing Monday.

Wallace changed his mind about returning to Boston to face trial for the brutal beating administered in Special Officers William J. McDonald in a Gustin hangout, and decided to think over the matter during the week-end.

Picked up on Broadway last night by Detective-Sergeant Arthur Tierman of Boston, the Gustin leader went through the routine today of standing in a police lineup and was then arraigned on an affidavit.

CITES McDONALD BEATING

The delay was granted at the request of the district attorney's office, in order to permit obtaining the necessary rendition papers from Gov. C. D. Tamm. Tierman telephoned headquarters he would be back here today and would at once start getting the warrant ready, so that papers could be available in New York Monday.

In the affidavit presented in court the New York detective said he was informed by Deputy Hugh John M. Anderson of Boston that on Jan. 15, last, Wallace struck Officer McDonald repeatedly on the head, fracturing the skull. The detective also said in the affidavit that when arrested Wallace admitted knowing that he was wanted in Boston.

The head of the Gustin band like to say when he was placed in the police lineup as a fugitive from Boston. He admitted to police that he had "plenty of money" that he was wanted in Boston.

Commissioner Asks All Evidence; Deft Sent to Codman

Responsibility for alleged unsafety and bad conditions in the police department was shifted today by Police Commissioner Hultman to the shoulders of Supt. Crowley when the commissioner ordered Crowley to investigate the smashing list of charges made by the grand jury.

It was the commissioner's first move since the jury's flying report.

Hultman also wrote to District Attorney Foley asking for additional information and evidence, much of which, it is understood, was gleaned for the grand jury by its own investigators but had not yet been made public.

The commissioner refused to give out the contents of the Foley letter, stating that the district attorney probably would upon its receipt. In the formal order to Crowley, however, Hultman said:

"Attached herewith is the report of the grand jury of Suffolk County referring to matters concerning the efficiency of the personnel and units under your command."

PARLEY WITH SOWARDS

"This report deserves the most careful consideration. Therefore, you will forthwith proceed, thoroughly to investigate all comments and suggestions contained therein and report to me the results of your investigation, together with your recommendations."

Hultman, who was missing from his office yesterday, arrived there on time today and went into an immediate conference with Les Schwartz, his legal adviser, the conference ending with the order to Crowley and despatching of the Foley letter.

Meanwhile it was reported that Hultman might yet be called by the grand jury.

Rome, June 30 (INS)—I believe that the custom adopted by Premier Mussolini, restricting his callers as to numbers and time, in order to have more time to concentrate on the Italian people and their national problems, might well be adopted by public officials throughout the world.

Results Show Everywhere

The benefits resulting as a consequence of his policy are everywhere in evidence. Roads, bridges, buildings, parks, sewers, water supplies, electrifications and reclamation of marshes are in process of construction in every section of Italy I visited.

It is evident he has supplied a genuine substitute for the dolo in work and wages that make a contented and patriotic people.

That he has grown in public estimation is everywhere evident in the respect, devotion and faith which the people of Italy revere in him.

Mussolini lives solely for his country and the good of his people. To this unquestionably can be traced the loyalty they display for him.

'SIGNED HERE FOR GOLD, EUROPE TELLS U. S.

Roosevelt is Asked to Save London Parley From Collapse

BULLETIN
London, June 30 (AP)—British war economic conference representative said today President Roosevelt has replied favorably to a plea for American assistance in stopping erratic fluctuations in the dollar.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Geological Museum, London, June 30 (INS)—For the second time in history, an international conference looked to President Franklin D. Roosevelt today to save it from collapse.

The nations of Europe joined in an appeal to the American executive asking him to use his power and influence to stem the roller coaster fluctuations in the value of the American dollar.

At the same time, a new attempt was launched to obtain American support of a temporary currency stabilization agreement.

BRITAIN WANTS ON U. S.
With the appeal, President Roosevelt was called the test of a currency stabilization declaration which the United States was asked to sign. Despite French efforts on the part of the continental "gold bloc" to obtain Great Britain's signature to the declaration before it was sent "on approval," the British government flatly declined unless the United States signs also.

Members of the American delegation spent virtually the entire afternoon in conversation with close friends, with the object of finding some possible basis for American adherence to the declaration.

In the afternoon, the entire delegation motored to the United States Embassy in Prince's Gate, to talk the situation over with Prof. Money.

Mr. Money's declaration was given by affirming the "desirability" of a stabilization of the dollar at its present rate and the United States are called upon in the declaration to sign a temporary stabilization agreement.

The gold nations specifically affirm their intention of preserving their present gold standard, while nations of the gold standard, notably Britain and the United States, are called upon in the declaration to sign a temporary stabilization agreement.

Prime Minister MacDonald made it clear that Britain was willing to join the others in drafting the declaration, but definitely would not insist in the gold bloc by signing it. President Roosevelt's veto sign.

There is a crystallization of feeling in certain quarters for the conference in question for six months to give time for adjustment of the American internal standard as the London Standard said today.

The newspaper reported that Assistant Secretary Wiley favors adjustment if the monetary difficulties faced by the parity cannot be solved satisfactorily.

ALLSTATE Leads All Tires in National Retail Sales

Built of patented Superlastic Cords

... a marvelous invention giving
25% to 30% more stretch under strain

Guards your life
when you drive over 35

GREATER national retail sales than any other tire is America's reward to Sears for supplying "Unblowable Tires"—balloons that not only bring a new HIGH in mileage, but also conquer blowouts—a chief cause of fatal accidents.

In two years' testing—six million miles—ALLSTATES against the other leading tires—ALLSTATES ran from 13.8% to 57.1% more miles before worn out. AND NOT ONE ALLSTATE BLEW OUT!

Cause of Blowouts

All makers of standard tires have tried to end blowouts and their dangers. They have added extra plies, made rubber tougher, cords stronger. But tires continue to blow out.

And 95% of the blowouts occur—NOT through the tread—but through the sides. That's because tires hinge up and down as they run, and stiff cords are frayed at the hinging point. This creates a "Blowout Zone" that can't stand the strain of hot expanding air inside and road shocks outside.

So don't let a sound tread deceive you into thinking that your present tires are safe. When you least expect it—BANG may go a tire, with tragic results!

Not so with ALLSTATE Balloons. For Sears has demonstrated that STRETCH—not strength alone—is the secret of conquering blowouts.

How We Do It

To achieve this, a wholly new KIND of cord was invented for ALLSTATE Balloons—a patented Superlastic Cord with 25% to 30% more stretch than average. It makes the ALLSTATE "give" on the sides as it flexes. The stretch relieves the strain—abolishes the "Blowout Zone"—preserves the cords intact for thousands and thousands of miles.

A marvelous Shock Breaker under the tread, intra-woven of special cords—stronger than two average plies or breaker strips—gives the ALLSTATE double protection from strain and impact.

Of course it is possible to blow out any tire eventually, by speeding into holes, crashing into culverts, and by under-inflation. But driven under normal road conditions, at our specified air pressure of 32 pounds or more, or even within 15% of it, ALLSTATE

Balloons will not blow out before the tread is worn smooth. You can drive at any touring speed without exposing yourself or your loved ones to accident, injury and death from tire blowout.

You would expect such tires to cost more. But due to Sears' large-volume sales, these wonderful ALLSTATES are priced below other standard tires.

So don't expose yourself or risk your family another day. Drive to the nearest Sears store at once, and replace your present tires with these Unblowable Balloons.

*ALLSTATE Tires, if kept inflated at our specified air pressure of 32 pounds or more, or within 15% of it, will not blow out under normal road conditions, before the tread is worn smooth.

95% of the Blowouts due to Cords that don't "give"

Angular Flexing Tire at 50 miles per hour hits every obstruction with impact four times worse than at 25.

Stiff sides have insufficient stretch to resist impact—cords bruise and break in the "Blowout Zone".

Then—or later when you least expect it—BANG goes the tire, with tragic results!

Why ALLSTATE Balloons Do Not Blow Out

Due to the Superlastic Cords having 25% to 30% more stretch than the average, the sides "give," thus relieving strain when the ALLSTATE flexes.

SUITS SPEED GRAND JURY ACTION IN BANK PROBE

Possibility of federal grand jury action in the affairs of the closed Federal National Bank and its affiliates seemed more certain today as the result of the filing of four suits by Herbert Pearson, receiver of the closed bank, in Federal Court late yesterday.

In filing one suit Pearson cited a bonding company clause providing that the bank should not be liable for any loss through dishonesty or criminal act of any employee.

This citation, pointing particularly to the charge against Theodore M. Logan, vice president of the closed bank, and a brother of Judge Edward L. Logan, of South Boston District Court, had authorized a loan of $25,000 for his own private benefit and not for the bank's use, as alleged by the bank.

An affidavit sworn to by Pearson, embodies the charge against Logan and is attached to the declaration of his suit against the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Co. The suit, one count seeks to recover $25,000 from the bonding company, which had insured the bank under a so-called "banker's blanket bond."

JURY PROBE ON

The federal grand jury now in session was reported as ready to consider any evidence of criminality in the administration of the affairs of the closed bank or of its affiliates and the charges of Pearson are expected to launch a probe by that body in a short time.

In another count of his suit against the bonding company, Pearson seeks to recover $75,000, alleged to be the amount of a deposit in that amount was issued to Lyong B. Henderson, former treasurer of the Federal National Bank, for the benefit and supposed advantage of the bank.

Another count in the suit seeks to recover $75,000 on a check handed by the Federal National Bank, but Pearson alleges, the check was later found to carry a forged signature.

SIGNED BY FALVEY

By means of an interlocking system of checks, notes and bills of exchange were turned over to the Federal National Bank by the Federal National Bank, for the benefit and supposed advantage of the bank.

The receiver has also filed three separate suits in which he seeks to recover $100,000 from the Salem Trust Co., also an affiliate of the closed Federal National Bank, for unpaid promissory notes, checks or bills of exchange and for 30 other checks, which went through clearance but on which payment was halted.

CHARGES AGAINST LOGAN

The affidavit containing the charges against Logan declared that on Oct. 15, 1931 he procured the Federal National Bank, director in the closed Federal National Bank, to make and sign an unsecured demand note payable to the bank in the principal sum of $25,000. The affidavit declares that Logan at the time knew Falvey was financially irresponsible and unable to meet and discharge his liability on the note if called upon.

LOGAN HOLDS CERTIFICATE

Pearson charges that on August 7, 1931, a certificate of deposit in the amount of $75,000 with no consideration other than two cashier's checks, representing the proceeds of two unsecured demand notes and signed by the parties in whose names the checks were issued.

The affidavit continues that Pearson obtained the certificate in blank and delivered it to the Federal National Bank. It is stated that the certificate is now in the hands of a claim brought by Bank Commissioner against the assets of the Federal National Bank.

The third count asks for recovery of $75,000 on a check the closed bank had honored. No charges are made against officials of the bank in this count, which asks specifically that recovery be sought on the bonding company clause under which the bank was protected against any loss through dishonesty or paying forged or altered checks or those bearing forged endorsements or certification.

HUNT MATTER INCH-BY-INCH

New York, June 30 (AP)—The "Almanac" matter, race expedition, snared away from Floyd Bennett field at 106 a. m. today for Alaska.

Capt. Post William Alexander, in command of the rescue plane, said on reaching Nome he and his three companions would "divide the map into squares" and search systematically for the lost flier.

Matters, who was attempting a flight around the world, took off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, more than two weeks ago and vanished.

With Alexander went Fred Patterson, mechanic, who put Matters' plane in shape for the flight; Harold Persons and Thomas Ahoy, motorcycle cop who obtained a furlough to help with the search.

Everything is riding smoothly, is the world's first hitchhiker said after he met the good Samaritan.

The Geneva disarmament conference folded up as gracefully as a well-timed punch. Like a cat down a well they finally realized they weren't going anywhere.

Billions from the London economy indicate the American dollar is still playing money-in-a-bottle. France just issued another last will and testament. It's getting as these days that constitutions, charters and ultimatums are just day bulletins.

KAHN'S BATTLE WITH MORGAN LEAD BARE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 30 (INS)—The efforts of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to help the Pennsylvania Railroad build a mighty rail empire than that dominated by J. P. Morgan & Co. was probed today at the closing session of the Senate banking inquiry.

Ferdinand Pecora, Senate counsel, summoned Henry H. Lee of the Pennrod Corporation to explain the project. This corporation was financed by Kuhn-Loeb headed by Otto H. Kuhn and gathered $14,000,000 in railroad assets. It was opposed to the Morgan-controlled Allegheny Corporation, which had $60,000,000 assets, including the rail interests of the famous Van Sweringen brothers.

The revelation of Kuhn-Loeb interests in railroad assets during the closing session. The inquiry will be adjourned until October 3, when the New York Stock Exchange, investment trusts, and the International House of J. P. Morgan and Kuhn-Loeb will be investigated.

DOUBT DOZEN BODIES.
The railroad inquiry will give the public an insight into how it pays the cost of huge financial schemes. The Pennrod Corp. was financed by Kuhn-Loeb as the main source of funds. Railroad might acquire ownership of numerous connecting lines.

Subsequently purchased securities in a dozen railroads, ranging from the Boston & Maine to the Pittsburgh & West Virginia and including the Chicago & North Western, Lighthouse Valley, Atlantic Coast, Rockwell Air Line and Southern. The firm of Kuhn-Loeb floated the Pennrod securities and took $25,000,000. The stocks were unloaded on the public, reaching $30 each after collapsing later to $25.

FAVORED CLIENTS.
Kuhn-Loeb had its list of "favored clients," who were allowed to participate in underwriting various security issues. The profits shared were trifling compared to those reaped by Morgan.

Peter A. Rockefeller, New York financier, for instance, was paid for over $2,000,000 of underwriting and drew down a profit of only $40,000. Newcomer Carlton "raked" $100,000 and got only $4875.

Rockefeller led a $5000 profit on the list of those who helped float a U. S. Rubber security. Albert H. Wiggin and Charles H. Mitchell led for $2500 each, each with a $5000 profit.

The hearings will close this afternoon with publication of lists of loans made by Kuhn-Loeb to banks and corporations officials.

STAGE STAR AND HUBBY PART.
New York, June 30—Clara Lane, dancing star of "Gay Divorce," current Broadway hit, until she strangled a leg ligament, just can't get along with her millionaire husband, Clifford Warren Smith. This became known here following rumors, through Smith's friends, that he declared nothing more than incompatibility with his wife.

Reports were about town that Smith had made a huge settlement on his beautiful wife but the attorney, Bennett K. Siegelman, denied them.

"That matter of a settlement has not been adjusted as yet," said Siegelman. "No, I don't know where she is. It's somewhere here in New York before she is, she won't leave."

Surgeons Work to Save Boy as One Lies Dead at Feet.
New York, June 30 (AP)—Surgeons during a delicate surgical operation the surgeon should die. Arnold Levine, 7 years old and a sufferer from spinal meningitis, was taken to the operating room of the Park East Hospital yesterday. His condition was grave when the operation a delicate one. It involved the extraction of a fluid from the spinal column.

Present in addition to nurses, were Doctors Arthur Shurin, Aaron Goldblatt and Michael Mailing. Dr. Goldblatt administered the anesthetic. Dr. Mailing handled the needle. Dr. Shurin held the boy into which the fluid was drawn. The needle had been inserted. Dr. Mailing staggered and whispered: "My heart!"

A nurse caught him and both fell to the floor. The hands of the operating surgeon continued to move rapidly. The

Tiernan's Own Story of Capture of Wallace

By SERGT. ARTHUR J. TIERNAN
Head of Police Headquarters Bureau of Investigation
As Told to Francis P. O'Neill of the Boston Evening American

Wallace, alias Gustin, with a reputation for toughness and a Boston police record extending over more than a decade, surprised me when I finally caught up with him in the heart of New York's bright light district. His capture was a totally unexpected event and a case of "I didn't have anything to do with that McDonald case. You know I'm not a co-hothead. Arthur. This case will run itself out all right."

I got a laugh out of his asking me who gave me the tipoff that he was in New York. I told him there was no tipoff, only a rumor. I told him I was the most surprised man in the world when he stepped out of that mob.

FLY TIP ALL WRONG.
The first intimation he had that he was in New York came Wednesday with the tip that he was probably taken in the Sharkey-Carver fight Thursday night. The latter tip was all wrong. Stevie told me himself after the capture that it would be "dynamic" for him to show his face there. With so many Bostonians and police officers who are sport followers, there he felt sure he would be recognized.

I got a laugh out of that and asked him if he didn't think it was dynamic to be on Broadway. He said that he had seen many Boston fight fans on Broadway, that apparently none of them recognized him. He said he was headed down Broadway to visit friends when we grabbed him. He had walked a short distance and decided to call a cab. That was the difference between escape and capture for him.

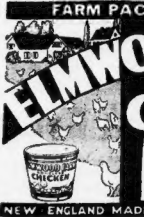

Italy's Jobless
Total 1,025,754
Rome, June 30—A further reduction of 35,742 in Italy's number of unemployed is announced by the ministry of corporations. The figures show that there were 1,025,754 unemployed in Italy on May 1, compared to 1,061,526 on April 1. There has been a steady decline reported for the last few months.

Donors of Blood Are Pallbearers
Present Pa. June 30—Ten youths who gave blood for frequent transfusions in a futile effort to save the life of eight-year-old Roger Morgan, were named as pallbearers for the boy after his death recently.

Four of the boys were active pallbearers, while the six others were honorary pallbearers.

WEEKS, HAGAN CANDIDATES

Candidates of Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton, and Representative James E. Hagan for the majority of their respective cities in this year's election have been announced.

Mayor Weeks had previously announced his intention to retire from office but he is now determined to seek reelection to a third two-year term. Although re-elected without opposition in 1931, it is understood he will be opposed this year by former Mayor Edwin O. Childs and Thomas W. White, who has submitted his resignation as Collector of Internal Revenue to President Roosevelt.

In announcing his candidacy for Mayor of Somerville, Rep. Hagan secured Mayor John J. Murphy and charged him with reckless extravagance and neglect of duty. He claims the conduct of the Murphy administration since 1929 has brought the city to the verge of bankruptcy.

EMERGENCY SUP CITY AND BILL

Gov. Ely has decided to withhold definite approval until today of the bill authorizing the State to borrow $30,000,000 to be financed by a 4 per cent tax on intangibles.

The measure was enacted almost unanimously by both branches of the Legislature yesterday afternoon and was rushed to the governor at his Westfield home immediately after being signed by President Fish of the Senate and Speaker Dalton of the House.

An emergency preamble attached to the bill makes it effective immediately after it is signed by the governor.

The measure is designed to aid those cities and towns which are in financial distress and unable to borrow from banks. The bill provides that the Commonwealth may borrow the money and lend it to the distressed municipalities with the approval of the State emergency finance board.

SOLDIERS' HOME SURGEON SLAIN

Dayton, O., June 30 (AP)—Col. Vernon Roberts, 52, chief surgeon of the National Military Home here, was shot fatally today and within two hours police announced that he had been killed.

Roberts, a Spanish American and World War veteran, was found by a guard in the home's kitchen an hour and half after Col. Roberts had answered the doorbell at his residence to be shot four times in the body by a man who fled after shooting a shot at Mrs. Roberts.

Police said Shubert admitted the shooting because of a grievance, but did not say what the grievance was.

New Sino-Jap War Threat Dissipated

Tientsin, China, June 30 (AP)—Difficulties between the Japanese and Chinese over the administration of North China neutral zone designated in the Tangku agreement of May 31 appeared today to be nearing peaceful solution.

A few days ago an impasse, caused by Japanese charges that the Chinese were failing to police the zone as they agreed in the agreement and Chinese replies that the Japanese were allowing soldiers to enter the district, resulted in widespread fears of further hostilities.

Roosevelt Makes Wallace Ford "Czar"

Washington, June 30 (AP)—To clarify the relationship between the national recovery administration and the farm administration, President Roosevelt today designated Secretary Wallace all the powers contained in the industrial recovery act, relating to the handling of r. i. k. tobacco and all foods and foodstuffs, except those provisions relating to the hours of labor, rates of pay and other conditions of employment.

Last of Forest Army Leaves Devers

Port Devine, June 30 (AP)—The last of the 10,000 men of the 10th Cavalry regiment having departed for various forestry camps in New England.

The companies were sent to camps in Crampton Upper Village, N. H., Grafton and Dover, N. H. The last company left here late yesterday.

SKATE IN HEAT TO ENTER ROLLER DERBY

Despite the intense heat, two Roxbury girls skated four miles from their homes to the Boston American office to enter the American's big roller skating derby at Boston Arena, July 22. "We were just practicing," said Miss Alice Henahan, 17, of Tremont st.

(right). "We had a swell time coming in," added her chum, Miss Gladys Rechia, 16, of Greenleaf st., Roxbury. Both girls hope to win one of those fine prizes that will be awarded to winners. See the story in this edition for detailed information.

Three Girls Skate to American Office to Enter Derby Contest

Roxbury boys and girls are getting all steamed up about the Boston Evening American roller skating derby at Boston Arena, July 22. They are so thrilled over the prospect of a lot of fun that some of them roller skated four miles from Roxbury to the Boston American office in Winthrop sq. to enter their names for the races.

Those who skated that distance to enter the derby are Miss Alice Henahan, 17, of Tremont st., Roxbury and Miss Gladys Rechia, 16, of Greenleaf st., Roxbury. "We had a swell time skating in from Roxbury to the Boston Evening American office," said Miss Henahan. "It was good practice for the American's derby. If Gladys and I do not win a prize in one of the contests it won't be because we have not practiced as we are doing that during all the spare time we have. It's swell fun. We just love it and don't care if the world knows it."

And if you don't think Roxbury boys are excited over the expectation of fun at the derby, read what Charles Closures, 17, of Linwood st., has to say: "You can tell the rest of the boys I am going to give them a skate for their money. I am entering from Roxbury playground and regard myself as a boy who can make skates fly."

Youth's enthusiasms have been deeply stirred by the American's derby. Ask any youngster on skates if you would realize the impression it has made on them.

On Saturday afternoon, July 15, the preliminaries will be held in Charlestown playground, West End; Paris at playground, East Boston; Strandway, South Boston, near Columbus Park beach; and Franklin Park Greasing near Blue Hill ave. entrance to Franklin Park. Go to the above playground or park nearest your home and if you win a place in the contests there you will take part in the finals at Boston Arena. You can't enter the finals unless you win a place in the preliminaries.

Entrance recently received follow: John J. Barry, Jr., 8, Sydney st., Dorchester; and Yvonne Madeline, 8, Houghton st., Somerville.

TRIO NAMED IN RACKET PROBE

New York, June 30 (AP)—Three indictments were handed up to General Sessions Judge William Allen here by the grand jury which has been investigating charges of racketeering in the Fulton fish market.

Alleging extortion and coercion, the indictments named Charles Skillen, president of the United Sea Food Workers Union, and Joseph (Doc) Lanes, business agent of the union.

One of the indictments alleges that last April, Henry J. Marikis, owner of the Arrow Line Transportation Company, of Mystic, Ct., was forced to pay $50 to Skillen to deliver fish to the market.

A second charges Skillen with collecting $50 under similar circumstances from Nathaniel Avery, a truckman, of Stoughton, Ct.

Skillen and Lanes were named jointly in the third true bill, returned on complaint of William Eldridge, of the New Bedford, Mass., Fish Company, who alleged he was forced to pay tribute of $100 to the union leaders.

"GREAT SCOT! IF IT ISN'T TIME FOR BOND'S HALF-YEARLY SALE OF 2 TROUSER SUITS"

IT STARTS TODAY
—with 3 healthy
price-cuts

Cut 1—our two trouser suits up to $25

"Why run a sale now, when prices are going up", asks one of our staff. "Save these suits, they'll be worth more in the Fall"... Sound advice, that—but decidedly against our fixed policy that "this season's suits must be sold this season". So a SALE it shall be—with a heap of good round dollars cut off everything (except staples). Even our double-voiced Camerons, and new middle-weight Carolina Worsteds are included. Suits you can wear now—wear all summer—and wear next Fall.

No Charge for Alterations

17⁸⁵

Cut 2—our two trouser suits up to $30

Here's where the blue pencil has done a vigorous job! Savings up to $7.15 are nothing to sneeze at, these up-and-up days—particularly when they apply to the "cream" of our custom-grade suits. Plenty of keen new Silver Greys, plaids, and chalk stripes for the wise men who get here early!

22⁸⁵

Cut 3—our two trouser suits up to $35

Do you admire that expensive "made-for-me" look in a suit of clothes? And has it been just a bit too costly for your pocketbook? Well, hop to it! Here's your chance to indulge—at one whole of a saving.

27⁸⁵

Our Ten Payment Plan is more convenient
than a charge account
—because you pay only a little at a time! Use it during this Sale. Pay $5 at purchase, the balance in ten budget payments!

No extra charges of any kind for this service!

Every suit is from our regular stocks—and is sold with our famous "money-back" guarantee.

WENDELL HEIRS SETTLE FOR $2,125,000

New York, June 29 (AP)—Four distant relatives of Miss Ella V. Voss, the heiress, settled today for $2,125,000, the sum estimated at the time of her death.

The four will receive a total of $2,125,000 in return for dropping action in which they contended the 40-year-old woman, who lived in a musty Fifth ave. mansion, was of unsound mind when the will was drawn.

They are Rosa Dew Stansbury of Vicksburg, Miss., Grace Estery McQuarrie of Oakland, Cal., Mattie Barney Simmons of Spokane, Wash., and the estate of Laura Orat Harrison of Alameda, Cal.

The settlement became known after Surrogate James A. Foley signed a decree admitting to probate the will, which leaves most of the family fortune to charitable institutions.

A total of 224 claimants to the estate had been eliminated, the surrogate said. Five other fifth-degree relatives previously compromised their claims.

In that group were Lena Barney Butler, Eddie Barney Irwin, Gail Barney White, and Holland Vaughan Barney of Seattle, and Ernie Barney Bush of Alameda, Cal.

City to Battle Attempts of Workers to Recover Pay

City and county employees who plan to follow the lead of Court Clerk Campbell for reimbursement of "voluntary" contributions of pay for welfare work, will be bitterly fought, as Clerk Campbell was through the Supreme Court.

That was the "club" held over their heads today in an announcement of Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman, following the decision of Supreme Court that Clerk Campbell.

Atty. Silverman pointed to the bridge cards that were signed by employees when they were told voluntary contributions had to be made or straight pay reductions put in effect.

Clerk Campbell, in a statement that he objects to the "blackjack" method of getting the contributions, rather than his giving to the unemployed, said today that any back pay he receives from the court decision will be turned over to charity.

RECOVERY PLAN IS ATTACKED

New York, June 30 (U.S.)—Alfred E. Smith thinks the National Industrial Recovery Act is impracticable, undemocratic and dangerous to American initiative.

In an editorial in the New Outlook, the former governor said there is a vast difference between federal control of a great public utility like the railroads, on the one hand, and federal control of business generally on the other. He can't understand how the new plan can possibly work.

"It does not seem to occur to the average man that at bottom human nature is responsible for the world's economic miseries, and that it is only by raising the general level of human character throughout the world that a new society free from war, brutality, arrogance, selfishness, water disease and human misery, which are the real causes of all economic depressions, can be brought about."

While Smith would not willingly accept present conditions, he thinks there is such a thing as putting too much faith in political and scientific schemes of a nation.

"If its terms are carried out literally, the tendency undoubtedly will be to cripple initiative, legalism, and even efficiency encourage monopoly, and require higher tariffs to maintain the new structure."

In such a situation of inefficiency, the little man would find it in the shuffler.

SPANISH PRINCE BRIDE

The fact that his marriage caused him to renounce his rights to the Spanish throne seems in no way to repress the happy smile on the face of the former Prince of Asturias as he escorted his bride, the former Edelmira Ignacia Adriana Sampedro. R.I. KILLS STATE PAY CUT PLAN

Providence, June 30 (AP)—The general assembly in special session passed early today before adjournment an emergency public works bill enabling the state and its municipalities to take advantage of the provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

It is a provision for 10 per cent pay cuts for state employees and for creation of a commission to investigate reorganization of state departments.

A resolution creating a House committee to investigate wage conditions in the state was passed in that branch after a one-hour bill, passed in the House, had been defeated in the Senate.

Burke Faces Fight for Re-election

Former City Purchasing Agent Joseph L. Fitzpatrick, of Medford, who declined to approve certain contracts for purchase of garbage wagons, which were sold before his purchase to a garbage contractor at a substantial loss to the city, has announced that he will be a candidate for mayor.

Mr. Fitzpatrick was one of the city officials to resign his office with Mayor John H. Burke's last office.

$75,000,000 Program to Build Up American Navy Revealed

Washington, June 30 (U.S.)—A strength and ability to control the sea in defense of the nation and its interests.

The fundamental policy of the United States under the Roosevelt administration was stated as follows:

"To maintain the navy in sufficient strength to support the national policy and commerce, and to guard the continental and overseas possessions of the United States."

The new building program in addition to the recently announced $135,000,000 program for 32 new ships is designed to bring all battleships to 100 per cent modern efficiency, and to make the battleship fleet second to none in the world.

To further promote a design of the navy to a maximum in battle.

DEATH TRIAL IS SON ADMITS HE NEAR END SPIED ON MOSS

Spain for directed verdicts of acquittal. Today, opened the defense of three men on trial in Salem court for the midnight slaying last February of Paolin Francis V. Quinn of Lynn.

According to the state case Quinn was shot to death while questioning the three defendants. Tony Buffa, 33, of Lynn; Joseph Brown, 35, of Cambridge; and Edward A. C. Quinn, 24, of Salem.

Testimony of Capt. Charles J. Van Amburgh, state firearms expert, showed that the fatal bullet in Quinn's body was fired from a revolver owned by Buffa. He testified another bullet as that which came from the revolver of Brown.

Before the trial, it was expected that the case would end next week with the possibility that no jury would be selected.

Youth Is Freed in Auto Fatality

New York, June 30 (AP)—Magistrate Hosack dismissed a technical charge of homicide against Stanley Odium, 17, of Logan, Ohio, in connection with the death several days ago of Charles F. F. F.

An auto owned by Odium, who is the son of Floyd B. Odium, public utilities officer, figured in a collision in which F. F. F. killed and another person injured.

At a result of the three fatalities at the beach in Medford this year and to prevent bathing at that beach, the Metropolitan District commission has prohibited parking along the Mystic Valley Parkway near the beach and for half a mile in each direction. Parking has also been prohibited on Elm and Falloway West near Wright pond.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

LOVE BANNED FOR ARTISTS

Paris, June 30 (U.S.)—Is falling in love a foolish thing, so foolish that one deserves punishment for it? This is the serious question shortly to be decided by a commercial tribunal in Paris.

It has been raised by the fact that a certain establishment on the coast of Normandy which employs musicians, dancers and other artists, has announced that it will be a candidate for mayor.

Mr. Fitzpatrick was one of the city officials to resign his office with Mayor John H. Burke's last office.

The artists' union has taken the matter up and urged the Tribunal of Commerce to declare that the inclusion of such a clause in any contract constitutes an interference with personal liberty.

They argue that the falling in love should be considered on the same level as any other accident, and that the artists should not be penalized any more than those who contract other temporary maladies.

They will undoubtedly win their case, for even Frenchmen love to love. A few years ago a group of very modest citizens endeavored to penalize kissing on the streets, but this project did not even get as far as the courtroom.

Women Hold Key to Success of Hitler's Newest Plan

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

YOU CAN SAY this for Bro. Adolf Hitler of Potsdam—that he makes enemies he prefers to make them in the most possible groups. It looks to me as if pretty soon he will have the population of the world organized against him by sections.

An organized economic boycott on behalf of the Jews is already taking shape against all German goods. He has suppressed all German political groups which are not Nazi. He has put German organized labor on the spot. And now he turns to the German women. Here, I take it, is where he ought to look out. The female of the species, as the poet tells us, won't stand things that the male takes lying down.

For a good many years now the younger German woman has been famous all over Europe, for her intellectuality, her social freedom, and even her sexual independence. She is no longer the hausfrau whom the late Kaiser in a famous speech assigned to her kind, her kids and her cookies. Goethe's domestic Charlotte gave way to Victor Schœn's little Fräuleinchen, the stenographer and girl about town.

Great Struggle Between Men and Women

But all that is over now. Adolf began by putting up signs in the restaurants and beer gardens. "The German woman does not smoke." And apparently they do not. They seem to have a considerable faith in him. One of his campaign slogans was "A husband for every girl." This is important in a country where one whole generation of young women were left husbandless and where the girls still far outnumber the men.

The girls must marry for two reasons. First because the German birth rate is falling badly, far below the level of the ideal before the war. Second, because with 4,000,000 unemployed in the country, there are 11,000,000 women working. These must be retired to their homes.

A young man who marries a working girl is given a small loan to start housekeeping on, provided she gives up her job. If he marries a girl who is not working he gets no loan.

Thus Hitler proposes to avoid that struggle which the Frenchman Brieux once called the most dreadful struggle that has ever been known in the history of the world. That struggle, he said, is not to be between capital and labor, employer and employee, but between men and women—a dreadful internecine struggle for available jobs. If Hitler can retire 11,000,000 women to home, marry most of them off and give their jobs to men, may have solved that problem.

The next step is, apparently to tax all bachelors and widowers, so as to make celibacy economically profitable. Or rather, I believe, the idea is to establish a pool out of a celibate taxation from which wages may be increased for married men with families. Men in government service will be paid on a sliding scale according to the size of the family. Presumably the wife of the woman who on remaining unmarried and keeping a job would approach the vanishing point.

Nazis Determined on Healthy Children

It is even hinted that the need for children is so great that (as unmarried mother will be encouraged and rewarded—a kind of polygamy which the unbalance of the sexes would seem to call for. But Nazism is determined that those children which Germany needs shall be healthy ones. It is proposed, I believe, to examine and classify all marriageable people and to see to it that only people in the same classification shall marry.

There shall be no intermarriage between Aryan and non-Aryan. The government wishes to breed for blondness, for pure German stock. And, in addition, it is proposed to sterilize all people unfit for parenthood. The Nazis say that modern civilization pays more to support the unfit and the detrimental than to support the fit. Three classes, the insane, the criminal and the crippled, cost more to support than the sane, the law-abiding and the healthy. It is proposed to change all that.

These are the proposals. If what we hear from Germany is true, the great majority of the people are sufficiently sold on Hitler and sufficiently docile to make it not unlikely that they will support him in an attempt to carry them out. With absolute power and an obedient people, there is no reason why they cannot be carried out to a considerable extent. It is true that every reputable student of genetics in the world admits that we know nothing about selective breeding and have no idea what the results would be.

It might be possible perhaps to breed for height, weight, rugged complexion and blond hair, which the Nazis seem to put a good deal of stress upon. But what are the desirable Nazi qualities, mental and spiritual, to breed for? And is there any possibility of attaining them? Science is more than dubious, it is skeptical. Nevertheless, if Brother Adolf does try to put it through it will be one of the most important and fundamental social experiments ever tried in the history of the human race. Plato dreamed of it in his "Republic," but it was never more than a dream. Thomas More hinted tentatively at one or two aspects of it in "Utopia" but it was not more than a hint. The Spartans came near it as any people. They did not allow Spartans and Helots to intermarry; and they regimented the courtship and marriage of the young people very severely, not to mention the education of the children.

Success of Plan Rests With Women

But: will the docile young German woman, who won't smoke because Bro. Hitler wishes she shouldn't, accept all this? Athletics, for instance? The German girl is a convinced athlete. But Hitler dislikes athletics for women as ardently as Mussolini likes them.

How about politics? Under the Republic the German woman was political minded. She held office. She helped put Hitler in office. Will she go back quietly to the kitchen? Will the 20,000 girls at universities give up higher education and professional opportunities? Will they give up short skirts and, even, nudism, which the Nazis are against—and go back to the traditional dress of the late Kaiserin Victoria Augusta?

You have got to hand it to the man. The bigger the job, the bigger the bite he takes. Whether he can chew it or not will be one of the most interesting questions of the coming year. Meanwhile, it wouldn't do us any harm over here to ponder on the question of the woman in business and in industry, particularly the married woman.

It is perfectly possible that if several married women retired from their jobs and gave them to married men to support families with, this country would be a lot more self-sustaining than it is.

DEMOCRAT TO PICK MAYORAL CANDIDATE

BOY OF 17 SHOT POTSMANSTOWN IN BACK BEATS TO KEEP EYE OFF GERMEN LAW EXTERS

Savin Hill Beach Is Greater Boston Youth Scene of Attack; Companion Hurt

A Dorchester youth, who belted two gunmen, almost shot in the back, and finally put to flight, was under treatment at City Hospital today.

In addition to the bullet wound he is suffering from cuts on the right side of his head and near his right eye. Hospital authorities say the bullet wound is not serious.

The youth gave his name to police as Joseph Kelly, 23, of Adams St., Dorchester. He was walking with Cornelius J. Moriarty, 21, of Savin Hill, Dorchester, on the boardwalk near the bathhouse at Savin Hill beach when the holdup attempt occurred.

Moriarty, manager of a gasoline filling station, was carrying the day's receipts.

One of the holdup men drew a gun and ordered them to throw up their hands. Moriarty refused, and Kelly, stepped to his side to protect him, then he was hit by a blow from the gun butt.

The second gunman, who was armed man and, as Kelly started to rise from the ground, the armed bandit fired, wounding him in the back.

Treaties do not prevent war! That was the warning sounded at the fifth session of the Rotary convention in Mechanics Hall today by Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas.

Praising the high purpose of those who advocate disarmament and admitting the horrors of war, the senator told the Rotarians that despite the fact that international conflict had been outlawed by the League Covenant, the Kellogg-Briand pact and other treaties there is war today in South America and China.

Robinson addressed the convention on "What Lies Ahead." Disclaiming the role of the present world crisis and their own part in it, he suggested by past history that there would be called "Our Common Cause."

Government has adopted theories that would have been called "Our Common Cause" by the League of Nations. In these there is no danger but every man must be on guard against the repetition of laws that guarantee equality of opportunity to grow more disastrous.

The London conference must achieve some degree of success, said the retiring president, for the world now being waged is not to grow more disastrous.

Another speaker on today's program was Sir Robert Falconer, K. C. M. G., past president of Canada's famed University of Toronto. His subject was "Our Common Cause."

HOUSE VOTES THE GOOD TRIP

Carrying the approval of the House of Representatives, a bill for $15,000 to send the racing champion, George L. Thibault, to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago reached the Senate today.

Rep. Edward J. Kelley of Worcester made a vain effort to defeat the bill in the House but it was finally passed by a vote of 16 to 24. A poll of the Senate indicated that the measure will pass easily.

Everett Residents Protest Bad Beach

Everett parents were in arms today over an epidemic of cut feet in which half a dozen children have suffered injury during the past week at Sandy Beach in that city.

Glasses and what was strewn along the beach several weeks ago has not been cleared away and is becoming imbedded in the sand, they said.

Repeat Won 236,742 to 34,816 in Conn.

Hartford, Conn., June 30 (AP)—The Democratic ticket won 236,742 votes for repeat and 34,816 in the official election, June 20, official returns showed.

The delegates who will receive their certificates of election after the canvass is made will meet July 11, to act for repeat.

Roxbury Man Jailed as Auto Theft Head

Edward F. Burns, 26, of Hyde St., Roxbury, today started a one-year sentence in the House of Correction after being found guilty by the Suffolk Court of receiving stolen goods.

He was charged with the sale of an auto theft and registration forging ring.

Following presentation of the organization's new officers and the reading of messages by the new and the retiring presidents, this evening, will end its convention at the time of "Old Time Singing."

Five Greater Boston youngsters shared $500 prize money awarded by the Rotary Foundation for the best essays on the Sixth Object of Rotary—International Good Will. The winners were: Thomas Chish, 13, of 477 Broadway, Salem; John L. Lehan, 16, West Fifth St., South Boston; 3300 E. Vincent Wilkins, 17, Lynn St., Belmont; 15, Dexter W. Gaston, 41 South St., Brighton; 330, and James J. McCormick, 1274 Cambridge St., Cambridge, 25.

Auto Death Results in Speed Trap

Police traps will be operated until further notice in Eastern ave. and Salem St., Malden, according to orders of Capt. John M. Aylward, to check speeders, autos as the result of the death of a man in Eastern ave. and several accidents in Salem St.

Police declare that motorists have been using both thoroughfares as speedways. A similar type of trap has been in operation in Broadway, Malden, for some time.

1000 Enroll for Swimming Lessons

Inspired by the Boston Evening American's swimming races, July 26 more than 1000 youngsters have registered at Boston's municipal beach for free swimming instruction.

The swim races are under the direction of James E. O'Reilly, superintendent of the park department, both driving, working in conjunction with the Evening American's Boston Swimming Association, for the races to be held at Columbus Park beach.

Next Wednesday in East Cambridge court Abraham Weinstein of Calvin St., Somerville, will battle against his three children. They are Minnie, William and Mrs. Jeannette Glanz. Weinstein's claim is that his total wealth, amounting to $5100, is being held by the children. Weinstein is at the age when he thinks he should retire. But retirement

Aged Man Begg Court to Take His Savings From Children

A house divided, with a 55-year-old father, craved against his three children in disputes over the family money and property, will be presented before a master in Middlesex Court next week.

On one side is the father, Abraham Weinstein, of Calvin St., Somerville, who wishes to retire to enjoy his life savings, after working for 40 years as a carpenter. On his side is the story of more than 40 years of toil, weeks piling on weeks and, with each passing week, a small saving. Some would say the bank book would show a ten-dollar deposit. Other weeks would show hardly more than a dollar.

But each week a bit more was added to the slowly mounting total. These small deposits with the addition of small profits in a few careful investments in real estate brought the total savings of the elderly man to a figure estimated at well over $5000.

But in the past year there has been trouble in the once happy home in Calvin St. Gradually the difficulties between the father and his children increased until finally the point was reached where nothing in their own power could heal the breach.

Now the matter will be thrashed out in court. Judge Abraham Pinsky will appoint a master some time before next Wednesday to hear all sides of the Weinstein family troubles.

BARE THREAT IN DIVORCE PLEA

The cross divorce suits of Vernon H. Moss of Brookline and Mrs. Margaret Moss of Winthrop have been taken under advisement by Judge Joseph H. McCool of Dedham Probate Court.

Moss sought a divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and desertion; while Mrs. Moss charged him with infidelity, naming a Brookline young woman as corespondent.

Vernon H. Moss, Jr., son of the couple, who was recently acquitted of an armed robbery charge in the Salem court, testified for his father who testified his son and he were in the divorce action or he would send some gunmen after him.

TRIO QUIZZED 9 POSTAL VETS IN SLAYING RETIRE TODAY

Armed with data from Massachusetts persons, Florida officials returned home today to push further their probe in the double murder at Miami last month of two Virginia sisters.

Among those questioned here were James R. Humphreys, 29, of Andover, former manager of the Admiral Hotel at Miami, at which the murdered sisters were guests. Humphreys' mother, Mrs. Ida Humphreys, of Greenwald, Miss. Newton, and his sister-in-law, Miss Madeline Gove, of Barrett St., Roxbury, were others.

The murdered sisters were Mrs. Myer Shapiro, 43, a widow, and Miss Lillian Howard, 35, both of Woodstock, Va.

Dry Die-Hard Barks Sale of Beer

Because his landlord is a real "die-hard" prohibitionist, George Barkas will not sell beer at his Westbury Hill market.

One of the seven to obtain permits for quenching a beer thirst that has existed in Westbury since its settlement, George was given the ultimatum of eviction if he used it, he said.

The landlord is Isaac Sprague, retired Boston banker, one of the wealthiest men in Westbury and a member of the "Old Guard" which met on bank licenses at the last election.

Out of the present 15 directors of the Maiden Marian Bank, only three will remain when the new law prohibiting directors to serve on the boards of more than one bank goes into effect.

40 AGREE WITH DOWD SECRET SESSION PLAN

City Councillors and Legislators Answer Call for Friday Next

Fifty Boston Democratic leaders will gather in secret session in Hotel Statler next Friday evening to choose a candidate for mayor. The meeting has been called by City Councillor John F. Dowd of Roxbury and those in attendance will be members of the city council and of the Legislature.

Action by this group is expected to result in open warfare with members of the Democratic city committee which for several weeks has been planning to place the label of the party on a man chosen by their group.

Twelve days ago wrote the Democratic members of the council and Legislature suggesting that, if they chose a candidate and committee the right of the city committee to make such selection. Responding to the Dowd communication, Chairman John W. Newman of the city committee said he was in agreement with the Roxbury man that Democratic office holders should not be in the matter. Of the 58 office holders to whom he wrote, Dowd has received favorable replies from 48. Encouraged by this he has arranged for the meeting to be held in the city committee, and has made no effort to split his group with the Newman organization.

Special clerks will be retired at the close of business today in branches of the Boston postoffice according to an order issued by Postmaster William E. Hickey made public today.

One Spot Speeding Is Out Now

Motorists who like to speed as they drive over the new Center at West Roxbury, had better lower their desire for speed because the "nemesis of speeders" in the person of Harold Z. Langlois, is putting a check on all drivers who have that desire of seeing the speedometer whirl.

Langlois spends much of his time protecting children at speed crossings.

EACH SCENE A LEAF IN PRIMO'S GARLAND OF VICTORY

CHAMPION SINKS INTO STUNNED OBLIVION ALONE
It's an adage of the ring that when they go over face first, they go over for keeps. And that is just how Sharkey went the instant after his chin swung into the line of Primo's up-coming right hammer. Jack went down like one struck by an axe. His motionless, relaxed form haunted more than one pop-eyed ringster with visions of the end of Ernie Schaaf. The fatal ten bells were rung over the sailor long before he came out of dreamland. Fully a half hour later, Jack was wondering what had hit him. He had gambled to win just this way himself—and lost.

SHARKEY'S LEFTS RATTLED HOME LIKE PELLETS FROM A BEANSHOOTER

Sharkey had no trouble finding a target for his flicking left jab to Carnera's body—but he had trouble making the punches tell seriously on the gargantuan. In this third round Sharkey piled up point after point, while Primo pawed futilely and clumped heavily around the ring. Carnera's wrestling tactic smothered Jack effectively when the two clinched. Primo took much of Sharkey's strength away this way. (International News Photos)

VITTORIA! PREMO WEN! MAMMA—PAPA BE HAPPY!
Babbling incoherently in Italian and English, Primo's exultation knew no bounds when he realized at last that the world's title was his. Primo's papa was at the ringside seeing his son in his first fight. Carnera in an exuberant mood picked up his manager, Billy Duffy, and tossed him around like a rag doll.

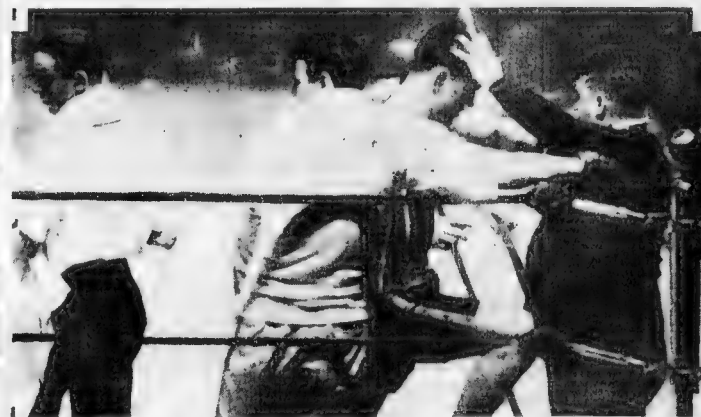

DUCK, SAILOR! HERE COMES THAT GILLETING!
Carnera sinks his left into Sharkey's sizzling frame, and at the same time measures the champion for a smash with that 11½-inch right hand fist, backed by 260 pounds of muscle. This shot gives a graphic idea of what it means to be inside a 21-foot ring with this new terror of the prize ring. Sharkey's weaving away from the destructive right.

In the ranks of ordinary men, Jack Sharkey is classed as a big fellow. But, see how Lilliputian his 200 pound frame appears in contrast with the broad beamed 260-pound Carnera. Jack crouches and darts in with the speed and certainty of a

SHARKEY'S LIGHTNING BOLT RIGHT SCORCHES BUT FAILS TO STRIKE CARNERA TO THE CANVAS
Here we go down the title fight road with the champion and the challenger. Action right away. Sharkey loops his right, razing the startled Carnera's button by an eyelash. The giant staggers back, cuffing and clubbing his way out of the first round onslaught. Sharkey was after a quick knockout.

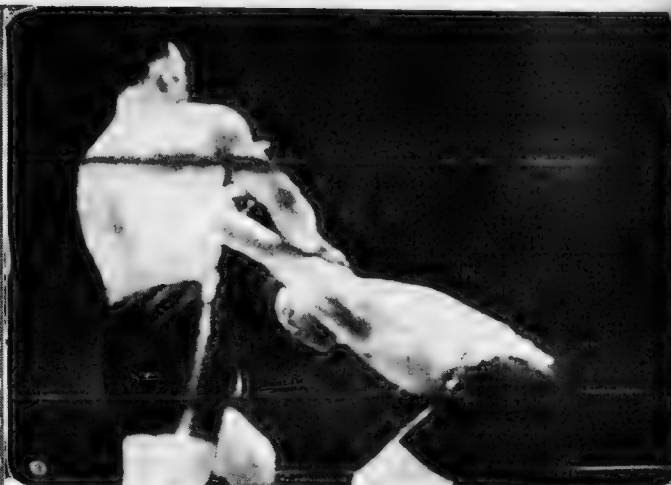

SHARKEY'S STRAIGHT LEFT STRAIGHTENS PRIMO LIKE A SIDE OF BEEF IN THE MARKET STALL
The sailor's big guns find the range and his left whips stiffly into Carnera's face. As Sharkey jerks the big Italian erect, he pivots to hook under Carnera's heart with his right. Primo brings his battering right down like a club on the back of Jack's head. The second round was all Sharkey.

third. Every time Sharkey slipped under that far flung barrier, Primo foreshortened his attack to club the champion about the head. Still Jack forged ahead.

SHARKEY SCORES A DIRECT HIT BUT FAILS TO SINK Foe IN FINAL BROADSIDE
The fortunes of war have changed. It's a lured, discouraged Sharkey now who drills mechanically on Primo's torso. Legs turn to lead, and arms to water. And still Carnera stays up. And the big boy's blows land with more telling force now. The end of the road is in sight for the sailor.

AN OLD SCORE IS EVENED AS PRIMO PUTS JACK ON CANVAS JUST BEFORE END
Two years ago, in this same sweltering lightpit, Sharkey hanged Primo to the calico. Now in the sixth, round the master must take his turn on the mat as Carnera clubs Sharkey to his knees. Jack came up without a count, but it was plain that he had been hurt. A Carnera right to the stomach sent the champion spinning.

"TEN AND OUT"

AND SHARKEY WALKS HIS LAST MILE TO END FACE DOWN AND IN OBLIVION
A milling sea of 35,000 roaring fight fans swim and spin in a pinwheel before Sharkey's glazed eyes. Referee Arthur Donovan bends over, tolling the final ten. And Sharkey cannot rise. Both guns going, colors flying, the sailor has gone down to his last count. It's the grand finale.

CLOWN TO CHAMPION THE STORY OF CARNERA

Uppercut Paved Way

By JACK CONWAY

Madison Square Bowl, N. Y., June 30.—(AP)—Sharkey struggled up off the floor in his corner where he had been carried by his seconds after having lost his world's heavyweight championship when he was knocked out by Primo Carnera after 2 minutes 22 seconds of battle in the sixth round of his bout at the Garden Bowl in Long Island.

The former champion drew a heavy bath towel around his shoulders, rubbed his face with his padded hands, then walked slowly five or six feet from his corner.

Sharkey clasped his big mitts together and then lifted them in the air. He turned completely around, bowing to the 45,000 persons who had seen the title change hands.

The former champion's jaw was set. There was a dull look in his gray eyes. As a faint gesture he threw kisses to persons in his audience.

He was a silent gesture of sportsmanship and bright forth cheers from the great crowd. Cheers that Sharkey seldom heard in victory.

These persons in the Bowl knew Sharkey had made a great fight against a superman. He had gone down with his boots on. Before the knockout he had staggered the Italian giant with sharp, vicious punches to the jaw.

With the cheering, Sharkey pulled himself through the ropes. Johnny Buckley and Al Lacey each held one of his hands as he walked down the steps from the ring.

Sharkey held his head high. His eyes were still dull. The few minutes previously to defend his championship.

Head erect the former champion walked to his dressing room. The crowd continued to cheer him until he was out of sight. The fellow who used to draw the boys was a hero in defeat.

Sharkey made a gallant battle of it to the finish. He tried to outmaneuver Carnera, to match his brain against the tremendous bulk of his ring foe.

Boxing skill and brains were not sufficient to hold off the Man Mountain. In the clinches Carnera handled Sharkey easily. He pushed him around and roughed. Twice he sent him flying half-way across the ring with vicious shoves.

The Sharkey of five years ago would have dug his feet into the canvas and made it impossible for Carnera to force him back. Sharkey was winning when he came in the sixth round. He had outboxed Carnera up to that point in the battle. The giant, however, had taken Sharkey's best shots and came roaring back.

Carnera stepped up in the sixth session. He knew Sharkey could outmaneuver him at long range, and so decided to make it a close-range fight. He wanted to close quarters and sent heavy right and left hand blows whizzing to Sharkey's body. These were the punches that led to the real damage.

I could see Sharkey drop back, badly hurt as Carnera's right drove to the body. As Sharkey moved back against the ropes, Carnera rushed at him. Jack tried to grab Carnera, but the giant pushed him off and drove a terrific short right hand uppercut to his jaw.

Sharkey's feet lifted a few inches off the canvas. He then slumped to the floor, face down. His body wiggled slightly, then became motionless as Referee Arthur Donovan counted him out. Sharkey, at the age of 30, had gone down to defeat before a younger and stronger man.

Battle With Max Baer Next Goal of Primo

New Heavyweight Champion of the World
New York, June 30.—My "Five-Year Italian Plan" is a success. In 1928 I won the world's championship from Jack Sharkey, who gave me my best boxing lesson a year and a half ago.

A right uppercut landed from the chin did not hurt. But I left hook had Jack going just before that. As Duffy, my chief second, will agree, I think I started Sharkey on the way out by that body smothering in the fifth.

Believe me, I could feel Jack going down, and told my corner boys when I returned there.

It was in the lead right up to the knee, though some thought Sharkey won the fifth with two or three hard wallop to my head. The crowd could see those and yelled. But really my best round—except the final one—was the fifth. That's when he was back with both lefts and rights, hard inside.

I could feel him sagging and he was being carried out.

Some of those who called me "The Great White Hope" were in the crowd. Now that the great title is mine, I want to fight Max Baer, the big hawking bull and just about the best of the world's champions. Mr. Baer is a man who has done more for me since 1928 than any other man in the world. I want to fight him, and I want to win.

I do hope that most of them will admit now that I have won the championship class at least. For, surely, I was through a world of hard work and stoic my share of abuse while the Italian five-year plan was being carried out.

Mad Scramble On for Baer Battle
A mad scramble was underway today by promoters anxious to close for a bout between Carnera and Baer.

While Carnera is under contract to make his first title defense under the auspices of Madison Square Garden, Baer is controlled by the Garden's rival, Jack Dempsey. Unless the Garden can wear Baer away from Dempsey, it was believed today the Carnera-Baer fight would be staged under the promotion of the Garden and Dempsey. Jack was to enter with Garden officials on the proposition.

Carnera, who attended the Sharkey fight last night in the company of Hannah Williams, the former champion, was seen in the latter's dressing room five minutes after the fight ended last night.

Joe Foley, Chicago promoter, who was here today trying to line up the Carnera-Baer fight for Soldier Field, Chicago, in September.

Sharkey Wants Chance
He heard the news. He was a champion. Sharkey, of course, wants another chance. They often do not seldom mean it. Personally, I feel that so far as Sharkey is concerned, if he never saw Carnera again, it would be premature. Besides, there are some who believe that he doesn't deserve a chance, that he climaxed it, in fact, ending a highly unsatisfactory career by failing to discipline the proper manner. There are even some who claim that the punch did not hurt him.

I'm a little limited that way. I only saw the punch. I did not feel it and so was forced to rely solely upon what I saw and heard. I mean that the nose injury couldn't have been up to snuff, so to say, because it failed to stop the flow of Carnera's blows so clearly defined by others who not only can sniff more keenly but much louder.

American's Fight Photos Scoop Flown Through Fog

Not even a heavy fog, which forced blind flying virtually the entire distance, prevented the Boston Evening American's airplane from reaching here from New York early today, giving the paper's readers a great picture scoop on the Sharkey-Carnera fight.

More than two full pages of the real action pictures of the big moments of the championship fight rolled off the press with the early edition of the Boston Evening American.

The skill of Carl O. Phader, of New York, a navy-trained pilot, and foresight in having two planes ready, maintained the Boston Evening American's record for the best picture FIRST! Phader took off at midnight, but was forced back by fog. He secured a plane equipped with blind flying instruments and set off again at 1 a. m., reaching East Boston Airport at 2:07 a. m.

Duce Delighted

Rome, June 30 (AP)—Primo Carnera's victory over Jack Sharkey was the first piece of news communicated to Benito Mussolini when he arose today. His secretary told him that the world's heavyweight boxing champion had won for the first time in his career.

I Duce expressed himself as being delighted with the success of the huge Italian fighter.

The Italian Boxing Federation, meeting here this week, officially announced Carnera's victory, despite his application for French citizenship.

Newspapers devoted most of their front pages today to the match, although the fight ended in a technical knockout.

He scarcely was a worthy foe for the American third-rater.

For the time being Carnera marched into fame prominence over the track of "push-over" men over a trail of "set-ups."

Superior naturally set its sights on the ground. Carnera's 10 rounds of trouble follow him.

But the clever and astute undoubtedly courageous Duce found his way to the ring.

He was hard at work teaching Carnera the ropes of the art of boxing. He was picking up plain points.

There even a time when Duffy as he is called, thought he was in a bout with him.

Duffy quipped Carnera into matches with Young Stribling, Jim Meloney, and Jack Sharkey. He was in a bout with him.

Later Carnera fought Maloney and that was the end of his career in New York. What happened inside and outside of the ring in those and other bouts is now being told in the pages of the American.

The case of Primo Carnera is an interesting and colorful one. It is the story of a man who came from Italy to America and became a champion.

In the series of reports we will endeavor to tell the truth.

Tomorrow's tanks and tank town on the road to the title.

SHARKEY SEEMED CALM OVER OUTCOME

Gob Looked Good at Start, but Forgot to Look in 6th

By "BUCKS" BAER

New York, June 30.—In an amazing finish to an amazing fight, Primo Carnera knocked over the dope chaser, knocked off Jimmy Johnson's attack and laid away Jack Sharkey with one right uppercut.

The Primo began his last time we talked back to a up from the sub-basement. When Sharkey struck his chin into the elevator shaft the next thing he knew he was surf-boarding in the cool waves off Homestead.

He went down and laid there like a plucked bird. The only thing lacking was a little parody in his eyes. He was still picking up the markers when referee Arthur Donovan got to ten. Some day we will have an educated referee who can go as far as twenty and give a fair chance.

They always said that Primo can't handle his mitts well enough to shuffle cards. But the uppercut last night under Sharkey's punch laid under as pretty a mark as we have ever seen, and the clouds that with the night.

SEEMS WELL RID OF 'HEADACHE' WITH CROWN

By HYPE 100

International News Service Sports Writer

New York, June 30 (INS).—The Man Mountain tumbled down out of the heavyweight champion of the world and crushed him in his head as he had a game.

Jack Sharkey was fighting and winning like a real champion when Primo Carnera seemed to spread all over like a spouting volcano in Madison Square Bowl in Woonsocket, R. I.

Sharkey had set his own pace and was "making a monkey" out of Carnera when he ran into a right-hand uppercut to the jaw that rattled every tooth in his head.

FELL LIKE TREE

He started toward the floor face downward, as a tree split at fall.

As the falling champion was half way down on the way to oblivion Carnera whacked him with a hard left chop. The first was enough to have finished Sharkey, possibly for he flattened out his stomach, his face flattened into the canvas.

At first I thought Sharkey would get up for I did not think the blow had been clean enough to keep him on the floor. There was considerable dispute about that among those close to the fair accompaniment. At 37 Sharkey raised his face off the canvas and red rubber mouth protector dropped out on the white canvas. It was a startling optical illusion. For just that instant it looked as if Sharkey was actually turning inside out. He remained glued to the floor, never getting off his chest.

CARNERIA PALES

Carnera, more ponderous than ever, was over in his own, the far corner, strangely pale beneath the tan of his training days. He was utterly at sea, not knowing whether to dance, say or sing for joy.

Artie Donovan, the referee, bowed "ten" his arms spread.

Carnera put on his show. He lumbered here and there embracing everybody who stumbled his direction. He hugged Bill Duffy, the man who piloted him to the golden throne of fistfight.

Duffy never had weakened in his original declaration.

"Primo Carnera will be the heavyweight champion of the world some day."

Sharkey was dragged bodily to his corner by Al Lacey, Johnny Bucklin, his manager, and Jimmy Palozzo. He seemed completely motionless, his right leg and foot raised in a fantastic tangle at the side of his chair.

And then came a lapse which I will never understand. Mysterical over the things he did and said, a tear over the loss of his loved little. He talked in a low voice, finally, searching each man's eyes for the answer. They patted him on the back and Bucklin put his arm around the dethroned king.

BUCKLEY WAGERS

If there were any watery eyes in that corner of defeat, they were Buckley's. Followed the men into the dressing room. Still the man he always trusted Primo and Jimmy Buckley. They made no comment. Rather they added up to the big fellow and satiated with there, like brothers.

"Well, Tony, that hasn't happened in a long time."

Jack Sharkey realized that he had been knocked out. Sharkey rubbed his face with his palms, staring strangely before him at the wall.

I asked if he intended to hang up his gloves, inasmuch as he had thrown a knee to the great crowd off the tip of his gloves when he came in in his career.

"No," he almost shouted. "I'm gonna fight in a couple of weeks. I'm too doggone rusty. That title was just a headache."

He seemed happy that he had been when of the crown he was right years winning. As he passed out into the night he took my hand, gripped it warmly and said:

"When you come to Boston, call on me."

Jack Sharkey's loss

New York, June 30 (INS).—Jack Sharkey holds Madison Square Garden partially responsible for his defeat because of its contract which permitted him to fight but once a year, he told his manager, Johnny Buckley, today before starting for his home in Boston.

"Jack says he lost because he had fought after a year," Buckley said today. "He's right when he says no fighter can afford to fight once a year and keep his top form."

"Buckley sounded a warning to both Max Baer and Carnera before he left. He believed the same thing will happen to them if they follow his footsteps and fight for one fight a year." The former titlistholder will try to get which with Bear this fall, Buckley said.

Close Fight on in Open Golf Final

By BILL GRIMES

One of the widest of all scrambles for a golf title is under way today at the Belmont Spring Country Club, where the survivors of the 36-hole qualifications are battling for the Massachusetts open championship.

With four contenders for state honors descending with 144 and eight others within six strokes of the leaders, the third round started this morning and there was a strong likelihood that a playoff to decide the championship would be required.

FIVE-TIE FOR LEAD

At the end of the second round, Teddy Turner, North Adams, Tom Mahan, United Shoe, Jack Curley, South Norw., and Frank Dickey, Quincy, were tied for the lead with 166. Mahan and Dickey added 12 to find round total of 178.

As a bonus, Henry Bontempo, a darts player, was tied for 166 in the morning for the title, only one stroke behind the leader.

With the exception of Jack Curley, the amateur was out of the running. Curley added a 73, even with 183, on the 36th hole and started this morning in an ideal position, three strokes back of the pack.

DICKIE TITLE THREAT

Jack Curley is still a dangerous contender, a man to watch in the morning. He was on even terms with the leaders. He is capable of scoring lower than in either of the previous rounds. He will be a tough man to catch, and he acquires the lead at any time during the final 36 holes.

Enthusiasts are predicting that Jack Curley, Tom Mahan, Teddy Turner or Henry Bontempo will succeed Francis Quinnet as the open champion. But it is hard to say for the boys to keep their eyes on the little Frank Dickey from the Middlesex Country Club of Franklin, N. H. In his last three competitive rounds, the former Nashua caddy has shot a 69 and two 72s.

The Tanks and Senators are deduced for first place in the American League this last day of June. The Senators lead before the Tanks, 3 to 2, and the Tanks wait for the Indians, 9 to 3, to manufacture the deadlock.

Giants' Lead Cut

The Giants had their lead in the National League flag struggle reduced to 2½ games when they were rendered to the second-place Cardinals, 7 to 3, at Ebbets Field, former Giants' home, yesterday in the second inning and was declared out for being out of town.

That around the Curve's to such an extent that they put over six runs in the third and drove "Lefty" Clark from the box. He has been well over a month since any Yankee pitcher allowed his team to score more than three runs in a game.

Carlson blanked the Tigersman and the Yankees.

Chuck Klein is a Tanager man as the Phillies without the Pirates, 4 to 4. The Quaker slugger, who hit in all six runs with his 14th and 15th home runs of the season, hit the single in the 14th time up. "Chuck" had previously been tied with Wally Peters for first place in the National League home run race.

Cubs Climbing

With Floyd Hurnon, an erstwhile Flatbusher, getting a bump run and a double, the Cubs trounced the Dodgers, 7 to 2. The victory left the detouring champions only a game back of the third-place Pirates.

Jimmy Foy went two up in the run race by bringing out his 14th run against the Browns. Jimmy's walk and run by Foy, who had son gave the Marks a 4-0 victory, although Lefty Grove permitted one more hit than George Bieleholder.

The Sox came here 2½ games out of the cellar, but they increased that average to three full games during their last, the last-place Browns going down before the Athletics.

George Pugsley, ex-Yank, will do the Boston pitching this p. m. Ted Lyons, Chicago ace, will get the nod from Lou Piniella.

MISTER ARLISS PLAYS THEM NEXT HN WEST

When George Arliss was in the midst of his tour of the Hamilton, he came upon a bedroom scene between himself and June Colyer. Mr. Arliss shook his head. No bedroom scene in his picture. The script was changed. June Colyer called to him from the top of the stairs to come and get his coat. They would sit at the top of the stairs. Again, Mr. Arliss took his hat. The bedroom scene was obvious. They would sit at the top of the stairs. When the scene was actually taken, they sat at the bottom of the stairs. His foot came lower, and the only intention Mr. Arliss would give the scene might be approaching a lady's bedroom.

SECRET YEARNING

I think that I have never heard a lady thrill "Thou Brilliant Bird" without an urge to grasp her throat And squeeze out one last lingering note.

A note that sounds much like a gasp.
A note that seems to grate and rasp.
A note emphatic and complete.
A note that nearly sounds retreat—
A note that if heard once again
Lives intimate with thought of pain
Scenes are made by fools like me
When goaded by absurdity.

Adam Scottlaw's Djournal

... This evening read to my wife aloud from an article yeelp: "Does a Lady Swoon?" and then the author writes "No," and tell how an lady does never swoon, and after reading of the article I did make a test to see whether the author be correct or no, and made by placing Little Adam's fire engine in the chair as my wife by accident sit upon it, that a lady does, in truth, swoon readily.
